LOCAL NEWS.

—Additional local news will be found on first and last pages.

—The public schools began their fall term on Monday last. The attendance was good as to numbers.

—Fifty-six members of the tribe of Crookland had a family gathering at the house of J. B. Crosby, Esq., on Wednesday of last week.

—The charter for the Ashtabula Pump Company was received last Wednesday. The location for the works has not yet been decided upon.

—Captain Ben Wilkins of the steamer India of the Anchor Line, one of the oldest and most popular captains on the lakes, died at Erie on Wednesday.

—Judge West gave the very best speech of the season to a full house on Tuesday evening. It was really masterly, and produced the best possible effect.

—The Democratic party has been likened, by one of the Republican stumpers, to a mile—"having no pride in its ancestry, and no hope in its posterity."

—We regret to hear that Mr. Rufus Harris, of Saybrook, has been adjudged, by the Probate Court, insane, and was removed to the Newburg asylum last week.

—Mr. W. H. Nickerson, the foreman of Stewart's quarry, Windsor, having retired from his position was presented with a gold-headed cane by the employees of the quarry.

—Misses Fanny Haskell, Sallie Hubbard and Hattie McNutt, left their Ashtabula homes on Wednesday last for Painesville Seminary, where they expect to pursue their studies.

—The fifth number of the series of "Homes," which have found a very satisfactory place in our columns of late is with some other local correspondent—Austinburg; for instance, have been deferred.

—Chaplain Wm. Hall, of the 10th Regt., supplied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening—a return, we suppose, for the labors of Pastor McGiffert at Camp Taylor in the afternoon.

—Johnny Hawkins, the property of Richard Wilkinson of Saybrook, has been sold to Cleveland parties for $700. Mapleton, a brother of Johnny, is now in Fickinger's stable, in the care of Henry Dinning. He is a nag of considerable promise.

—The citizens of Austinburg were favored on Wednesday evening last by an address from the Hon. Chas. Case, of Washington, a former citizen of Austinburg. It is represented as a banquet. Mr. Case was on his way to Indiana to take the stump.

—We learn that Mr. James Lettingwell, of Kingsville, has shown signs of unsound mind as to cause his removal—within a few days—to the care of the county infirmary; the authorities of Newburg declining, thus far, to receive him into that institution.

—The time approaches for the closing up of the labors of the Rev. Mr. Yingling over his present charge. His removal will no doubt cause some regrets, as his pleasant manners and faithful ministrations have no doubt given him a hold upon the hearts of his people.

—Mr. E. L. Lamson has been re-appointed a member of the board of school examiners. The board met in Jefferson on Monday, and after organizing by electing Rev. J. N. McGiffert, President, and E. L. Lamson, Clerk, made arrangements for the fall term of examinations.

—Circumstances have made it necessary to change the time of holding the next temperance meeting from the third Sunday in September to the second, and in consequence the meeting will be held on Sunday the 12th inst., at the temperance rooms on Centre street, at 3 o'clock p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

By order of the President.

—Mr. Thad. Hoyt, our village solicitor, will talk to his political friends at Rock Creek, on Saturday evening of the present week. The Democrats and Greenbackers, at the Creek, are about as cordial as were the Jews and Samaritans in the days of the Son of Man. Perhaps a little conciliation and fusion might improve the manner, if not the wit of the Democrats.

HARDWARE AT COST.—All you that are in want of Hardware will stop and read H. J. Topky & Co's offer for the next 30 days to run off their entire stock of hardware for cash—at cost. This is business, and no mistake. Give them a call.

REPUBLICAN MEETINGS.

Judge TAPP will speak at the town hall in Conneaut, Monday night, Sept. 13th.

Prof. HIBBARD, will speak to the people of Ashtabula, on Saturday evening—19th.

E. L. LAWSON, Esq., of Jefferson will talk to the voters of Rock Creek, on Friday evening, Sept. 17.

Col. ALLEN MILLER, will meet the voters of Geneva, on Monday evening 18th, and attempt to quicken the patriotism, with a speech.

There remains of Mr. Ezra B. Taylor's appointments to be filled after the Telegraph goes to press—that of Wayne, Friday evening, September 10.

FREEMAN THOMP, Esq., will speak to the Republicans of Plymouth at the Centre, on Monday evening next. A stirring and stirring address may be expected.

Hon. S. Northway will speak at Hubbard and Mineral Ridge, Trumbull county, on Thursday and Friday of next week, and at Mt. Vernon, on the 21st of September.

R. C. WADE, Esq., of Jefferson is looked for a speech at Kingsville on Friday evening 10th, at the Town Hall. Democrats as well as Republicans will be provided for, if like Pilate they have any inquires to make as to—"what is truth?"

—The Republicans of Monroe had a good meeting at Center on Saturday night. Mr. Pettibone says that the enthusiasm is well up. A Garfield and Arthur pole was put up last week and surmounted with a flag. This the Democrats threatened to take down, but thought better of it, and allowed it proudly to wave.

Judge T. T. T. will address the people of Ashtabula County at Jefferson, Tuesday, September 14, at one o'clock in the afternoon. Judge Tourgee, formerly of this county, has spent several years in the South, and realized in his own person some of the burning in process of southern oppression, disquisitions of which, in all their graphic truthfulness, have taken hold of the public heart. Let the incredulous and those who deny this thing go and hear a living witness.

A RESOLUTION OF THANKS.

WHEREAS, The citizens of Ashtabula who so liberally contributed both time and money to the success of the encampment of the 10th Regiment at Camp Taylor, deserve special recognition from the officers and members of said regiment. Therefore,

Resolved, That the thanks of the whole Regiment be extended to the citizens of Ashtabula for their kind treatment and generous contributions that went so far to make the encampment of the 10th Regiment at Ashtabula the most successful and satisfactory one in the history of the Regiment.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Cleveland Leader, Ashtabula papers, Niles Independent, and the Youngstown Register and Tribune for publication.

A. SWETT, Adjutant,
Mineral Ridge, O., Sept. 6, 1880.

A LIFE SAVING STATION.

It is apparent to all interested in business at this Harbor, that a Government Life Saving Station should be established at Ashtabula. There is no place on the south shore where there is more need for one, and should the proper steps be taken we doubt not that a station would be established here.

The loss of life and property in the disaster to the schooner Jane Bell on Tuesday night last, could have been averted had we a station here.

—Capt. Ottinger ran into our harbor on Thursday evening last, with the Commodore Perry, and in sauntering up town made us a call. In conversation about the Perry, in which he feels a just pride, informed us that the maximum speed of the ship is 19 1/2 miles. To make this her 13 feet wheels make 86 revolutions per minute. This brings the Perry within successful chasing speed of any thing upon the lakes.

—Mr. M. H. Haskell is lifting the rear of his block up to a uniformity with the rest of the building. This necessitates the removal of the Erie Store to that adjoining. This will give a chance for thorough cleaning and painting up the old store. In the meantime goods will be run off at greatly reduced rates, and customers will find it to their advantage to lay in their fall stock at the reduction.

—One of the substantial yeomanry of Denmark, in ordering the Telegraph, the other day, remarked—while setting up for the News, he was asked why he did so? The reply was given—you are on the fence, with a tolerably strong leaning to the Democratic side. We suppose we might aid, his admiration of Garfield, probably has something to do with it, for it was evident enough that it rather went against the grain to give his support to a sheet that was giving aid and comfort to Hancock and the solid South by traducing his competitor. It is unnecessary to say that he was a positive Republican, with no toleration for any principle requiring flinching and duplicity of sustain it.

—That was happy thought of selecting the Harmon flats for Camp Taylor. It was handy, supplies were at hand, well carpeted with grass, and easily reached from any part of the county. The picturesqueness of the spot is a prominent feature. No finer view could be desired than that from the bank in the rear of the cheese factory, from which you look down through the beautiful amphitheatre skirted on all sides with high grounds, studied with forest trees, and Ashtabula river winding along its western and southern sides, with the bold features Stillman & Co's mill, the iron bridge spanning the upper end of the stream, and the memorable Ashtabula bridge bounding the lower extremity of this beautiful view. No spot of equal attractiveness could be found where so many of the conditions of comfort could be secured, and we doubt not the spot will be remembered.

—A man at Essex, Conn., having long refused to admit any one to his house, where his wife lay sick, the Sheriff forced an entrance, and found the woman covered with probably fatal bruises.

SCHOONER JANE BELL WRECKED.

SHE SINKS ASHORE IN A STORM—TWO LIVES LOST.

The large three mast schooner Jane Bell of Cleveland went ashore near Sturgeon Point last Tuesday night between nine and ten o'clock and will prove a total loss with her cargo of 600 tons of ore.

The Jane Bell left Escanaba last Friday with her cargo consigned to Rhodes & Co., Ashtabula. She had arrived to within a few miles of her destination when she encountered a gale from the northward, and was driven ashore at the above named point, about five miles west of Ashtabula.

Captain P. H. Finley of Oberlin, and his crew, Fred Miller, Wm. McDonald, Alpha Crowl, James Rogers, L. B. Traub, Jacob Zaff, Thomas Phillips and W. J. Finley remained on board until Wednesday morning when an attempt was made to reach the shore in the yawl; the boat was capsized and Crowl and Rogers drowned.

The Jane Bell was owned by Edward Crowl and his son Alpha Crowl of Cleveland, the latter being one of the two who were lost. She was valued at $18,000 and was insured for $14,000; was built by Campbell & Owens of Detroit in March, 1882, but has been rebuilt within the past few years and was regarded as a staunch craft. The cargo was consigned to the Illinois Furnace Company of Youngstown.

The deck and rigging are scattered along the shore, but the hull remains where it first struck.

The body of the drowned sailor, Rogers, came ashore soon after the boat capsized, but at this writing, that of young Crowl had not yet been recovered.

An interview with Capt. Finley and owner—Edward Crowl—of the sch'r Jane Bell on Thursday, enables us to correct some of the errors of the reports of the Cleveland Times. These gentlemen scout the idea of leaving the wreck from "fear," as it required more more pluck to attempt to go ashore than to remain. This was proven by the immediate swamping of the boat and the drowning of two of the company. Capt. Finley saved himself by swimming ashore, and the others were picked up. Instead of "lowering" the boat—as the vessel lay upon the bottom in about 12 feet of water—the yawl was already in the water, and, and considerable labor and danger was endured to bring it alongside. The distance from shore to where the vessel grounded, was about one-third of a mile, a little east of Geneva—some 10 or 12 miles from her destination.

When the boat left, the main and mizzen masts had both gone by the board, and the foremast had become quite shaky. The vessel was fast breaking up, and how soon the work might be completed was only a question of a very short time.

VERY RICH.

The Ashtabula correspondence of the Cleveland Herald, of Saturday last, tells the following capital story of a member of the Legislature, from this county, played upon Colonel Ohi, which is decidedly rich and shows what a vein of waggy runs through this Hon. member.

"The boys," he says, "conceive to have considerable fun when off duty; for instance, this morning Hon. Freeman Thorp, who is a member of the Ohio Legislature, and a private soldier in Company I, thought to play a joke upon Colonel Ohi by taking the Colonel's coffee pot, filled with hot coffee, from the fire and carrying it up to the quarters of Company I; but the Colonel got even with him by ordering him detailed to sweep around headquarters. This Thorp proceeded to do, carrying off some fine pairs that were in the Colonel's tent and stealing his morning Herald; then, telling the Colonel that he always got his meals where he did his work, promised that he would stay around to dinner. Colonel Ohi happened to be invited to dinner, so Thorp went to the soldier's tent and told he suttler he was on duty at headquarters, and ordered lemonade, melons, and other delicacies for the Colonel's dinner, to be sent down to the Colonel's tent, and he (Thorp) enjoyed a first class dinner at the Colonel's expense, and when the Colonel got back to camp the melon rinds and the bill was all that was left except Thorp, and he left before the Colonel got back.

"EIGHTEEN YEARS ALONE" is the suggestive title of a most interesting and pathetic story of actual experience, in Scribner's September. It is the account of a female Robinson Crusoe—an Indian woman who jumped overboard from a vessel to find her infant, who had been forgotten and left on San Nicolas, one of the Santa Barbara Islands, by a crew sent to bring the islanders to the mainland. In spite of a heavy surf, she reached the shore safely, and lived here alone for eighteen years, as the island was out of the usual line of travel, until she was discovered by some sailors who were after fishing. The account of her life and occupations on the island, and her rescue and life after in Santa Barbara, California, is stranger than fiction.

—Stonach and Potter, the fraudulent Glasgow Bank directors, sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment, have been liberated, their term having expired.

Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in Columbus, O.

J. W. Miller, Columbus, O., says, that a couple of doses Electric Oil cured his child of Diphtheria, after all other remedies had failed.

—A partly swindler, in the garb of a Catholic priest, collected $1,000 in Rhode Island by pretending that the money was to build a church at Narragansett pier.

He who does nothing but eat and eat, will wear away of his pants the seat.

But who works hard, earns sweet repose, Can eat a square meal and wear good clothes.

And if he has indignation he's money to buy The best of all cures Spring Blossom, for a remedy.

Mr. F. A. Peabody gave us a rousing speech on Friday evening, for which he has the hearty thanks of the people. He handled the subject ably and was heartily cheered. We hope to hear from him again.

The Wide Awakes from Kingsville favored us with their presence and made a fine appearance. The gathering was large and enthusiastic.

KINGSVILLE.

We regret the necessity of announcing the death of our esteemed citizen—Geo. Perkins—who passed quietly away, on Wednesday evening last. He has long been a resident of this town, but for the last few years he has suffered from spinal disease to such an extent as to render life a burden to him, being almost entirely helpless, and for the last few months totally blind. Before his sickness he was for several years captain of one of the finest steamers on the lakes. He leaves a host of friends to mourn his untimely departure.

During the last week our Wide Awakes have attended two Garfield meetings. One at Ashtabula, the other at Sheffield. Both passed off very pleasantly, and the company felt well paid for their trouble, by having the pleasure of listening to the speeches of Taylor and Pettibone.

Speaking of Wide Awakes; what has become of that "splendid company of mounted men," that Index lauded to the skies a few weeks ago? They proposed going to Ashtabula to hear Taylor, and invited our company to go with them. We went, but where were they? Kelo answers, where? When interviewed, they said they could not get their company together, but would surely go to Sheffield with us. Well, our company was there, thirty-four strong, while the North Kingsville mounted company was represented by exactly three men—all private, in the rear rank. Will "Index" please tell us just where on the map that "splendid old town" is situated?

THOS. WOOD.

RICHMOND.

Eds. Tele.—For some time our attention has been called from "refreshment to labor," and the subject of temperance has escaped our notice, and yet, we are thankful that the cause has not suffered for want of able and efficient defenders, whose hearts yearn for the redemption of the human family from this terrible curse.

While it is necessary to advocate the subject in order to bring the minds of the American people to bear upon this important subject, we are truly thankful that our fair land can boast of many efficient workers that are willing to sacrifice time, money and intellect for the good of humanity. This army is still increasing and ere long will triumph over all the opposition which the enemies of the human race can hurl against them, although perhaps many hard fought battles may intervene before the desired end shall have been reached.

We have the assurance that truth will ultimately triumph over error—an idea that that should ever be kept prominent, although the horizon of the mind is often clouded in darkness. The hopes of the ultimate triumph of the cause lies chiefly with the youth and rising generation; hence a great responsibility rests upon parents in the training of these tender minds in the pathway of virtue. This can be effectually accomplished—not only in the family circle but also in our Sabbath schools and institutions of learning throughout our land.

Parents heed too little the responsibility that rests upon them in this direction. While our colleges give too much time to the cultivation of the intellect and too little to that of the heart—the all important point to be gained in order to fit them for usefulness in this life, and eternal happiness in the world to come. They should be taught, in early life, to abhor the great evil, not only the use of intoxicating liquors but the use of tobacco, which is only a step below, if not equal to the great sin above referred to. This sinful habit is increasing to an alarming extent, and the subject should be brought before the minds of the American people and a remedy applied speedily. Had I time I could enlarge upon this subject and give statistics, showing the cost of the use of this useless weed in the city of New York for the space of one year, but time will not permit at present, but should your readers desire, I will refer to it in the future; suffice to say that it is a great moral evil and should be classed with that of intemperance, and advocated as such until the curse is driven forever from our fair land. We are told that it is useless to advocate its overthrow; that there are so many addicted to its use, and the habit is so universal, that to talk of its overthrow is of no use. So we might say of the habit of the use of intoxicating liquors, and instead of its being an argument against agitation upon the subject it is one of the plainest reasons why the voice of the people should be heard against it, and the useless habit driven from our native soil. We can perceive but little difference between drinking the poisonous draft, and that of inhaling it after being steeped in alcoholic poison. We are led to the conclusion that both are useless habits, and should be discouraged by all lovers of the human race.

North Clarendon, N. Y., Dec. 6, 1875.

Dr. M. M. Penner, Fredonia, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—About a year ago my health was so poor that I was hardly able to do business at all. Had no appetite, could not sleep nights, coughed a great deal and in fact began to contemplate the necessity of breaking up my business and going to a different climate for my health. Had tried almost everything recommended for such cases but found no relief. I took five bottles of your Blood and Liver Remedy and now I feel as well as ever.

J. C. Cowen.

Dr. Penner's Blood and Liver Remedy and Nerve Tonic may well be called "The conquering hero" of the times. Whoever has "the blues" should take it, for it regulates and restores the disordered system that gives rise to them.
